Nisei Veterans In Japan Reported "Frozen" In Occupational Posts As Result Of Korea

TOKYO. — Military personnel now in Japan, including many Nisei GI's are "frozen" according to an unofficial report made here by several high authorities.

Since the outbreak of the Korean war, many members of the MacArthur's headquarters have been asked to stay on the job and remain until the tension in the Far East is over.

Several hundred Japanese Americans were still believed to be in active service with the U. S. Army in Japan, but most of them are attached to MacArthur's headquarters, as intelligence, interpretation, and director repair service personnel, and not in the fighting units.

In addition, nearly 1000 Nisei ex-servicemen and civilian employees would be "frozen" under the current order.

The present Selective Service laws limit draft calls to non-veterans, but because of the acute demand for experienced men in the current Korea fighting, there is a possibility that veterans in Japan may be returning to active duty in the near future.

Nisei linguists would be of value as most Koreans, except for youngsters, speak Japanese which was taught in the schools there during the 40 years the country was under Nippon's rule.

Just Passing Through

By Ken Adachi

The Korean hoop-de-doo, to [illegible] seems to be cast in a far-[illegible]way never-never-land beyond [illegible] ocean halfway across the [illegible]orld. It is, however, brought [illegible] us starkly, in big, bold, black [illegible]eadlines.

Now dragging beyond its fifth [illegible]eek of action, what started out [illegible]s a border incident has grown [illegible]ke a Frankenstein monster, in-[illegible] something too big.

Confused, I wonder whether [illegible]his is the prelude to the inevi-[illegible]able Communism-Capitalist con-[illegible]ict and the powder keg that [illegible]ill blow the whole world up. [illegible]he only ones who may know [illegible]he answers are the gods in the [illegible]remlin and the White House.

War is something that hasn't [illegible]ouched us here although I spent [illegible]he second world war in an [illegible]vacuation camp, wondering [illegible]hat was going on. There it was [illegible] to buck the old Issei die-[illegible]ards in the community bath-[illegible]ouses whose opinions about the [illegible]ar always differed from mine.

I also ran the gamut of wars [illegible] the history classes in school. [illegible] got a great kick out of war in [illegible]he history pages.

Two books that I read this [illegible]ear have provided a terrific im-[illegible]act also. The biting indictment [illegible]f war in Norman Mailer's Naked [illegible]nd The Dead is something that [illegible]eople with weak stomachs [illegible]hould never attempt to read. [illegible]ailer's war on a Pacific atoll [illegible]as lecherous, sickening. How-[illegible]ver, the realism is something [illegible] think about.

The other book was Irwin Shaw's The Young Lions in which [illegible] war was painted along the [illegible] lines. Shaw's war in the [illegible]uropean zone, too, was a war [illegible] "everyman for himself, the [illegible] with the others". Certainly [illegible] heroes there. Perhaps it was [illegible] disgust at the foolishness [illegible] war that prompted these men [illegible] write.

These books are two of the [illegible] read during the last [illegible]. My reaction was, "Can [illegible] be that bad?"

[illegible] this Korean con-[illegible] that bad. The [illegible] may be of tre-[illegible]tance but the [illegible] terrific. Human life [illegible] premium as the [illegible] Korean Reds lock [illegible] a peninsula.

[illegible] big bosses are [illegible] dulcet-toned [illegible]tance of the [illegible] double-breasted [illegible] of the Reel [illegible] aggression. [illegible] (I'm sup-

JCCA for 1950

Propose Nation-Wide Open Forum In Place Of Modified Conference

A proposal that the Modified National Conference planned for the late summer or the early fall of this year in Winnipeg not be held and in its place an alternative national project be given consideration, has been recommended to the provincial chapters of the JCCA by the National Executive Committee. The Committee further qualified its proposal that the national project be in the form of what it calls a "JCCA Nation-Wide Open Forum" in which chapters will conduct open discussions either locally or provincially, over an identical weekend.

The Third National Conference held at Lethbridge, Alta., last November, had directed the holding of a Modified National Conference this year at the end of the current fiscal period; however, the National Executive Committee is advocating its abandonment as it was planned to be a stop gap measure on a limited scale that it could not give thorough nor even adequate consideration to the important and far-reaching questions which would be brought up if the Conference were held. Furthermore, the conference cost is considered by the National Executive Committee to be out of line with the results that can be achieved by a modified conference.

The JCCA-Nation Wide Open Forum, if it is agreed to by the provincial chapters, is planned for the week-end of September 23-24. However, the Committee stresses that this date is optional and it is open to suggestion for alternative dates.

While the manner in which the open forum will be conducted will be left to the discretion of the chapters, The National Executive Committee, which is meeting regularly in Toronto to map out the outline of the project, is proposing that the theme of the discussion should be the "Future of the JCCA."

The purpose of this national project, according to the JCCA letter to the provincial and local chapters, is four-fold:

To mark the beginning of a new phase in the work of the JCCA.

To create a greater spirit of oneness between all branches of the JCCA throughout Canada and to stimulate greater interest in the work of the JCCA.

To provide an opportunity for all chapters and affiliated local organizations' membership and executive to discuss in open meeting the JCCA and various aspects of its future [illegible] be determined [illegible] point of the respective local organizations.

To project the [illegible] of the JCCA [illegible] and to provide a [illegible] which continued planning of the work of the JCCA [illegible] at the [illegible] National JCCA Conference in 1951.

First American Nisei Dies In Korean Action

LOS ANGELES. — A posthumous award of the Bronze Star was made to Private First-Class Jack C. Arakawa for bravery in action near Taejon according to a Washington dispatch, it was reported by the Rafu Shimpo last week. It said that he is believed to be the first Nisei death in the Korean war.

Arakawa was attached to the 19th Infantry Regiment, 24th Division and was among eight soldiers posthumously decorated as the Americans were forced to retreat. He is survived by his widow, Lia M. Arakawa, of Honolulu.

May Test Vancouver's Defense Against A-Bomb

VANCOUVER. — After returning from civil defense talks in Seattle with other Pacific coast mayors, Mayor Thompson of Vancouver intimated that they may stage a mock atomic bomb attack on the city to test its defense against such an attack.

He said that he will ask City Council to tentatively approve expenditure of some thousands of dollars required to underwrite the mock attack. While there was no need for panic, the mayor added that each municipality stands on its own feet in matters of civil defense.

Japanese Ministers Will Gather Here

While the World Convention on Christian Education convenes next week in Toronto, Japanese United Church ministers will also gather here for their own ministers' conference. This will take place on August 9 at the Queen Street United Church with Rev. K. Shimizu as the host minister.

Ministers who are expected for the conference are Rev. Y. Ogura of Grand Forks, B. C., Rev. J. Kabayama of Alberta, Rev. Y. Akagawa of Winnipeg, Man., and Rev. T. Komiyama of Montreal. Rev. McWilliams will also attend.

Dr. M. C. McDonald of the Home Mission Board will preside over the gathering. Following their conference, they will take part in the sessions of the World Convention.

Professor from Hiroshima

Revision of Japan's Education System

By Ottawa Correspondent

From Hiroshima, the city that was doomed as a guinea pig for the first atomic blast, a peace-hungering educator came to Ottawa last week. Prof. Manabu Maruyama who is on official invitation by the U. S. National Education Association to study the educational systems of various American cities and rural districts, took time off to attend here, unofficially, the fourth delegate assembly of the World Organization of the Teaching Profession.

It is his first visit to America and, with another teacher, a woman who is also on American tour, Prof. Maruyama has the honour of representing the [illegible] member Japanese Teachers' Association. The two delegates left Japan last May and the professor [illegible] and study in the United States [illegible] November. Canada is a difficult country to enter, even for a convention, the savant told me and said that he is lucky he was finally admitted because there are many other Japanese from Japan now across the border who have tried to enter the country without success.

A onetime dean as well as a graduate of atomic bomb-blasted Bunrika Univ. of Hiroshima (Univ. of Literature and Science), 45-year-old Prof. Maruyama just sat by humbly looking on as teachers from over two dozen countries debated for one week the complex problems of unity and education for peace. Invited nevertheless to express his views, he was urged on one occasion to come forward and speak, but he merely waved his hand, said smilingly that he would speak from where he was sitting in the back. Then the lady speaker asked him to speak [illegible] he spoke out loud, though perhaps strugglingly, to enunciate properly some English words.

Books Cause War

"It is important to have text-books, especially history books in all countries re-written—revised so that there would be no bias in them against other nations nor favoritism in them for their own," he said and then continued: "One of the causes of war stems from reading and studying in classrooms of books prejudical to neighbouring nations. The question, however, lies in whom to choose for writing such books." At the conclusion of his talk when he received the most enthusiastic round of applause from his listeners, I felt a little pride tugging at me.

Although his birthplace is Kumamoto prefecture, I asked him why he didn't have the native accent since I knew there was

MR. MACKENZIE KING'S STATE FUNERAL

By Ottawa Correspondent

Wherever Canadian politics were discussed, the name of Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King had been uttered invariably from the lips of most Canadians from coast to coast. In fact, to most of us he had been Canada personified; he had been the only Canadian statesman to etch [illegible] in our [illegible] for he had played the dominant role for 22 years in leading Canada to the forefront of the world.

Whether I had agreed or not with some of his political policies, I felt nevertheless as other Canadians that he was a great statesman, perhaps even the greatest Canada has ever had.

It was last Wednesday (July [illegible]) that I went to the Hall of Fame of the Parliament Buildings to see him lying in state. Just before noon I [illegible] behind a line formed [illegible] that stretched from the House of Parliament to Wellington St. facing the American Embassy, [illegible] two blocks [illegible], considering how [illegible] people had to line up [illegible] the bier of Mr. King's body [illegible]. The [illegible] people had to wait from 1 to 2 hours.

[illegible] every woman was [illegible] it wasn't proper to [illegible] was [illegible] [illegible] who had just come [illegible] [illegible] dresses [illegible] I saw a [illegible] [illegible]

Many [illegible] I [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] greens of the grass plots and shrubberies filled the hill perfectly to complement a beautiful panorama of the Parliament Hill. As befits the occasion, the crowd was relatively well-behaved with the exception of a few who sneaked in midway of a line on pretense of looking for someone.

Once inside the House of Parliament a strong aroma of the variety of flowers wafted into my nose and I soon likened the odoriferous atmosphere to a flower shop. It was a fragrant odour and it brought to my mind all that is feminine, refined and noble. The flowers in baskets and in wreaths were set against the walls of the Hall of Fame and were aligned in between forming two paths or a horse-shoe-shaped path, one end of which was to go in and in passing the bier at the end of the Hall to come out through the other end. There was a profusion of yellow daffodils, red roses, orange dahlias, pink hollyhocks, red carnations, mauve asters, white lilies and many others on each side of the marble path. It could well have been a flower show and I thought it was worth coming even just to see the flowers.

As I approached Mr. King's stone and marble temporary resting place, people were now passing by it in single file, reverently. Represented by the armed forces and the R.C.M.P. there were four guards, standing still as a statue at each corner of the mahogany casket. Their heads were turned toward the coffin [illegible] and eyes [illegible] with their hands resting on the butt end of their rifles. Even if they stood in half-hour relays, it must have been very difficult [illegible] to [illegible] still almost holding their breath.

Escaped A-Bomb

[illegible] was drafted [illegible] bomb [illegible] and friends, home and place of study, books and a life that went with them. Despite the loss of his property, especially valuable books, it cannot be said too highly that he is very grateful that he, his wife and children were spared of death or injuries from the terrifying holocaust.

Prof. Maruyama said that while very few modern buildings are erected, Hiroshima has been almost restored to normalcy with the usual flimsy paper and wooden houses built along each side of the streets. As he wasn't too disposed to reflect on war's horrors, I did not query him further about Hiroshima.

"After the war the U.S. Army of occupation in Kumamoto soon took advantage of his education of highest quality by hiring him for a year as an educational consultant, for he had been well versed in English, French and German languages. And since then he has been a professor of education at Kumamoto's Junior College where 800 students attend.

The Japanese erudite is, no doubt, in the forefront of this new educational era, for he seemed to be preoccupied with thoughts on Japan's vast reorientation in the field of education.

"I would like to see introduced what you might call 'social education'—a kind of education that [illegible] Japanese [illegible]

[illegible] business [illegible] ness and the [illegible] power who had [illegible] the whole [illegible]

sociable and know how to get along with others," he said.

Co-education System

The greatest step made in the educational set-up of Japan since the war is the introduction of the co-educational system in the majority of schools throughout the country. With the exception of parochial or private institutions, schools ranging from public schools to universities are teaching males and females together in same classrooms. Accompanying the new process are entire new sets of textbooks, while all the old wartime and pre-war ones had been abolished. Although textbooks contain democratic ideals, the teachers themselves while teaching them have not learnt to show themselves up as democratic examples to pupils. Therefore, an intensive re-education of teachers to accept responsibility in the new system is going on. It's not so much a teacher shortage as a shortage of re-trained teachers, he explained.

When asked how many students there are approximately in Japan, he produced a statistical booklet of the Japanese Ministry of Education and quoted from it the following figures: Male college students, 325,000; female college students, 40,000; while the total public and high school students numbered 18,000,000. He proudly stated that illiteracy in Japan is almost nil and that the Japanese schools generally excelled in academic subjects as compared to American schools, whereas the latter are far ahead in the practical and vocational phase of education. Neither condemning one nor condoning the other, he expressed hope that Japanese educational method in future will be such as to blaze the middle road between the theory and the practice.

The Ottawa press referred to him as "Dr." so I asked him if he had received the doctorate in education or in literature, but he frankly admitted that he was no doctorate at all and that he had majored in literature. He pointed out that it is exceedingly difficult to obtain such distinction, especially in literature, in Japan and that he is too young for it even if he is academically qualified for the award. As far as doctorate in medicine is concerned, he said that it is easier to obtain and that medical men with such degrees are numerous whereas in a literary field there are only a few doctors in Japan.

Prof. Maruyama felt, however, [illegible] he has done several years [illegible] post-graduate work and research [illegible] is probably equivalent [illegible] a doctor in literature by [illegible] standards. Japan has [illegible] honorary degrees. [illegible] is preparing to grant [illegible] to those [illegible]

Senate Passes Measure To Admit Japan Brides

WASHINGTON, D.C.—[illegible] U. S. Senate last week unanimously passed and sent to the House the McCarran [illegible] Brides bill to admit [illegible] unmarried minor [illegible] soldiers and veterans [illegible] quota immigrants.

The major effect of the [illegible] to admit Japanese [illegible] children of American [illegible] sonnel and veterans [illegible] necessity of [illegible] bill for each such [illegible] be applicable to all [illegible] now in effect and [illegible] ring within 30 days after [illegible] comes law.

It is estimated that [illegible] Japanese wives [illegible] citizens living in Japan [illegible] immediately be affected [illegible] passage of the bill.

Time Magazine last week reported that the U.S. [illegible] "good and mad at Com[illegible] —home-grown as well as [illegible] U.S.S.R. and N. Korean [illegible] ties". Brawls, stonings, [illegible] ganized posses seem to be [illegible] day occurances. ## 米議會で歡迎さる

英佛の殖民競爭

一六三二年英佛協定によりカナダ及アカデヤは佛國領となつた。探檢家シャンプレーンは六十八歳で死んだ。時に一六三五年。ヘンリー・ハドソンという英國の探檢家がソレーキ卿と同じく印度に到達の目的で北西航路の發見を目ざして出帆し北氷洋を右に見ながら西航を續けているうちに船はいつしか今のカナダのハドソン灣に來た。その灣内の大河をさかのぼつてエスキモー土人と毛皮の交易をはじめたのが動機となつて、英本國にハドソンスベー會社を創立して手廣くカナダに毛皮集散地を開いた。

英國から探檢隊が多勢出かけ英國の殖民地の發見を次から次へとしたが、最初のカナダへの殖民は一六一七年にルイス・ハーバートという人が妻子をつれてクベックに入殖したのが初めである。

一七六〇年に、それまでは佛領だつたモントリオルが英國の手に陷落するまでは、英佛の殖民地爭いが續いた。

金儲けとは言いながら、野蠻な土人と野獸の外には住むものもない千古そのまゝの原生林に、零下幾十度の寒さと戰いながら、馬や犬を伴侶として旅を續ける冒險家があつてはじめて英國の偉大さが生れ、尨大なカナダが開けて行くのであつた。

注視さる朝鮮問題と安保理事會

【レーク・サクセス發】八月より國連安全保障理事會の議長におさまることになつているソ連代表は次の三項を強調、朝鮮戰争を速かに終止させる宣傳工作を行うと共に英米は好戰國であつてソ連は平和愛好のチャンピオンだと言いふらせようと試みるであろうと外交消息筋では豫期している

（一）朝鮮戰争の速かなる休戰
（二）ソ連代表を含む國連休戰委員を任命、軍隊の撤退並に動員解除を監督する
（三）國連管理下に全朝鮮の自由選擧を行う

Robbies Surprise With Win Over Hurricanes, Two Tilts Washed Out, T. Yatabe Tops Batters

Only one game of the usual [illegible] bill was played in the Toronto Nisei Baseball League last Sunday as heavy rains the night before left Christie Pits soggy.

At Riverdale, the onrushing Robbies who were cellar-dwellers a scant two weks ago, jumped into a tie for fourth place with Hurricanes by virtue of a 7-6 win over the same team.

Although outhit 11-7, Robbies put on a last ditch stand in the last inning and came up with a [illegible] rally to eke out the narrow [illegible]. Four hits coupled with [illegible] walks and two errers paved the way for the big inning in which eight men went up to bat.

Ken Morimoto stilled the Robbies bats for six innings with three hits but gave way to Kaz [illegible] in the seventh. Nick Kaji was their battery mate. Ken Matsui registered his second straight win for Robbies by going all the way with Don Mitsubata behind the plate. Lefty Hirowatari got two hits for the [illegible]sets.

Big Ten Batting

Hurls First Perfect Nc-Hitter In Japan

TOKYO. — The first perfect no-hit [illegible] and no-walk game in Japan was recorded recently in a Japan Pro Baseball League game.

Hideo Fujimoto of the Tokyo Giants achieved the pitcher's dream by hurling the perfect 4-0 game against the Nishi-Nippon Pirates. Only 27 Pirates faced Fujimoto in the regulation nine inning game as nine flied out, 11 grounded out and seven struck out.

He threw only 92 pitches, mixing a slider with his curve ball to perfection.

Western Jrs Climb Into League Lead

Ken Ikeda elbowed his way to a [illegible] job over Milwaukee Sports in eight innings in lead[illegible] the Westerns juniors in their jump to first place in the West Toronto Junior Baseball League on Friday.

The juniors who have been getting some effective pitching as of late, pushed across their one run in the extra inning as Ikeda was limiting the Milwaukee batsmen to four hits and striking out six in winning his fourth straight game.

Hamilton Busseis Card 1st Picnic

HAMILTON. — The Hamilton YBS has dated Sunday, August 6 for their first picnic which they plan to hold annually hereafter.

The outing is to take place at Webster Falls. Tickets are available at 75c for adults, 50c for those 12 to 18, and children free and may be obtained from the executive members.

Buses will leave from the Hamilton Buddhist Church, 44 Strachan St. East at 10 a.m. There will be races and prizes and everyone is invited to join in the picnic.

Kimonos, Sukiyaki Fad In U. S. City

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — It is reported that hostesses are using kimonos, gay party festoons and lanterns, paper cherry blossoms and recipes for sukiyaki to make their parties successful in Minneapolis.

Families who have outdoor cooking facilities in their backyards are featuring sukiyaki supper parties during the summer months. It is also said that "sushi" or fancy rice balls, also has caught on with party givers. Popular mixtures include fish, meat paste, chopped vegetables and cheese.

Raymond Triple B's Visit National Park

RAYMOND, Alta. — A three-day vacation in Waterton National Park was enjoyed by the Raymond Triple B's girls club recently.

Accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Tucker Hironaka and Mrs. Ikuta, the girls boarded Sarawagari's truck on Tues., July 18. At the park the Triple-B's enjoyed hiking, swimming, boat riding and other activities.

On Friday, July 21, the girls packed and on the way home, stopped at Cardston and saw the beautiful Mormon Temple and also visited the big St. Mary's Dam. Evening saw the tired girls reach "Home Sweet Home."

Thanks go to Mr. and Mrs. Hironaka for making this trip possible.

ACCENTS ON SPORTS

When the outstanding swimmers of Japan and the United States strove against each other in a Tokyo pool this week, eyes will be turned on one event in which two great freestylists, one representing Japan and the other the U. S. but both of Japanese ancestry, will be racing to outdistance the other.

Churning the pool for Japan will be the "Flying Fish of Fujiyama", Hironoshin Furuhashi, who last year [illegible] the world writing of freestyle records. [illegible] the Hawaii sensation, 17 year old Nisei Ford Konno.

Konno is regarded to be [illegible] who could possibly challenge Furuhashi. John Marshall [illegible] self has been doing a [illegible] ing the team, but will not [illegible] is an Australian, and [illegible] on Konno for the [illegible] Hashizume, Furuhashi and Maruyama [illegible]

However, Marshall [illegible] find himself [illegible] more than the better.

Without Marshall, [illegible] so good, and this is admitted by coach [illegible]. If the Japanese sweep the middle and long distance [illegible] cans would not have a chance.

And such a sweep is very probable for the Japanese swimmers behind Furuhashi are only a few strokes off.

Getting back to Konno, he [illegible] which he, an unknown, challenged John Marshall [illegible] hope for the middle distance events in the 1952 Olympics. Both [illegible] sports writers insist that he [illegible] standing swimmers of all time.

They point out that the Seattle meet was his [illegible] for it was his first race outside of Hawaii. [illegible] 17 and has yet to reach his peak. [illegible] So they expect him to [illegible] water.

PAUL HIGAKI 'NEW NAME IN JAZZ'

By MARION TAJIRI

San Francisco

Out on a San Francisco street Paul Higaki looks like any Nisei coming home from a college class. He has a serious mein, wears thick-lensed, horn-rimmed glasses and wears campus clothes.

If there's any prototype of the hot jazz musician, Paul Higaki doesn't fit it.

And yet, as trombonist with Lionel Hampton, he is, in the words of the band leader himself, "one of the new names in jazz."

Musicians say the Nisei can hit a terrific high note. Duke Garrett, Hampton's arranger and a trumpet man, got nearly ecstatic about it on a TV show in San Francisco during the band's run in this city.

Higaki, however, is a pretty modest guy and doesn't talk too much about his high note. Obviously he just needs to know it's there when he gets on front for a solo number.

It's obvious, too, that he's doing just about what he's wanted to do for a long time. The Hampton engagement at the Golden Gate, which ended July 10, with a special "Paul Higaki night," was a tight and tough schedule.

The show ran 75 minutes, and five a day. In between, Higaki and others of the band ran a gamut of TV broadcasts, radio shows and interviews. If there was time left, they got a bite to eat before the next show went on.

From two counts, Higaki was a natural for TV and other shows in San Francisco. He's a local product, first, and secondly he's the only Nisei in a big-name Negro band.

Higaki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Masuichi Higaki of this city, first met up with a trombone during his days at John Swett junior high school. He played in the school band there, went on to Balboa high school.

He was about 18 when the war broke out and he found himself at the Granada relocation center. But his music playing and managing instincts were still strong. He organized the Stardusters band, which livened the camp on many an otherwise calm night.

When the army announced it was forming the 442nd combat team, he volunteered for service. He was accepted, sent to Camp Shelby, but received a medical discharge six months later.

Then to go back to music, he began his band work again. He was 19 when he started professional band work. His first job was with Lee Williams in 1944, playing throughout the midwest. The next year he joined the Bob Cross band.

Higaki's next turn was something a little unusual. He joined up with the Allen Reed all-girl band. The band traveled the south.

There was nothing wrong with playing with an "all-girl" band, Higaki recalls, except that, as he says, "women are too temperamental."

The next year he came home to San Francisco to organize his own band under the name of Paul Lee. During this entire period, indeed until he joined Hampton, Higaki played under that name.

"You couldn't get a job otherwise," he recalls.

His big break came when he latched on to Hampton, back in June of last year.

The outstanding thing about Hampton's band, according to Higaki, is that it's "precedent-breaking."

Or precedent-making.

Higaki's first tour of the south had been with the Allen Reed outfit.

"Things were real rough for Negroes then," he says, "but they're changing now."

Some of the changes—though they may be small—have been made by Hampton and his men.

His was the first mixed band to play Memphis, Tenn., Higaki says, even though Hampton did it in the face of a warning from Boss Crump that no mixed bands would play in that city. At that time the band had one white member as well as its Nisei trombonist.

"We went in anyway," Higaki says.

And down south, where minor customs relating to whites and Negroes are jealously maintained, Hampton has broken a few of them and gotten away with it fine.

To the outsider some of the customs are pointless. In some southern cities where the band has played, whites and Negroes are allowed to attend at the same time. But the dance floor is "partitioned" with a rope or a line of chairs.

"In El Paso we played the Coliseum and all the barriers were removed," Higaki remembers.

"There's a certain amount of intermingling now that you never saw before."

Traveling with a Negro outfit, Higaki has seen his fellow-players suffer a lot of indignity at the hands of hotels, restaurants and other places of public accommodation.

"But it's getting better all the time," he says.

Lie Looks To Japan Membership In U. N.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. — Visiting Japanese officials and businessmen were told by Secretary-General Trygve Lie that he looks forward to the time when Japan will be a member of the United Nations along with all other countries of the world. He saw Japan as a member of the world organization after the signing of the peace treaties.

The Japanese delegation visiting the United Nations headquarters here consisted of 53 persons, including the mayors of atom-bombed Hiroshima and Nagasaki.
